

World Metrology Day

A large, shallow metal tray filled with various types of grains and legumes, including red kidney beans, white lentils, and yellow corn kernels. In the background, a digital scale is visible with a smartphone resting on it, displaying some data. A small glass jar with a dark substance sits on the scale's platform. The entire scene is set against a warm, colorful gradient background.

Measurements supporting the global food system